About Me

I am a purpose-driven and intellectually curious student with a strong academic orientation toward science and technology, particularly in coding and programming. I possess a solid command of computational thinking and take pride in designing efficient, structured solutions while remaining attuned to contemporary developments in software and digital systems.

Beyond academics, I actively cultivate creativity through literature, cinema, photography, and hands-on craftsmanship, pursuits that sharpen my analytical depth and aesthetic sensibility. I maintain a disciplined and health-conscious lifestyle through regular involvement in football, athletics, and cycling, which has reinforced my teamwork, strategic awareness, and resilience.
